A

new publishing experience for Drupal is in the works: get ready to make your words, pictures, and layout look as good on screen as they do in your imagination, without any code.

Adding some random stuff.

Pain Points

Page refreshes are common

More time spent building, not creating content

Happy editors mean better content

Content is king!

It doesn't matter if the technology is great under the hood and the platform is awesome or easy to use if it's empty

There are not pages in Decoupled but we need to have the ability to get all the data needed to build our GUI pages in one single request

Headless is an architecture that allows the physical decoupling of

Presentation

	Content Management	Content Delivery	Content Presentation
Traditional CMS	Page-based system for content authoring and presentation	Content is stored mixed with the presentation	Delivers pages and content composed by the user to a single channel
Headless CMS	Content authoring	Content delivery by API	No functionality, presentation depends on other systems
Decoupled CMS	Content authoring	Content delivery through a website or API	Presentation can be rendered server side and by client applications
